

Ever Had A Big Mac Attack?

Have you ever had a late night craving that only the “two all beef patties special sauce lettuce cheese pickles onion on a sesame seed bun” could cure? Apparently, that was the motive behind a woman’s irate shooting at a McDonald’s drive thru window Sunday morning. The woman, driving a white Dodge Intrepid, entered the drive-thru of a Salt Lake City restaurant and wanted to order lunch, dinner, anything else besides what was being offered. Apparently, 24-hour McDonald’s change from lunch/dinner to breakfast only around 2AM. I never understood the need for fast-food establishments to have different hours for different meals. Is there something that prohibits them from serving quarter pounders at the same time as egg McMuffins? In any case you can follow the link to the full details and a possible connection to other shots heard a few hours earlier