

Prayer power

Some will undoubtedly write this off as coincidence, but those in Christ know better ☐ . There are far, far too many of this type of story out there to be anything but divine intervention. Just recently, two Christian pilots (in one airplane) in New Zealand ran out of fuel in their plane. The engine died and they couldn't see a place to land, so they did what came natural to them being Christians and prayed that somewhere to land would present itself to them just over the ridge in front of them. They found an actual airstrip just beyond the ridge just then which they hadn't known about before, and get this- Once they landed they found themselves right next to a 20-foot sign that read, "Jesus is the Lord."

Here is a link to the original story: Pilots run out of fuel, pray, land near Jesus sign