

Mars Pictures

During the past couple of days, I've again been amazed at the pictures current space missions have been sending back to earth. The first pictures from the latest lander are back. Just cool stuff. I saw one yesterday where one of the orbiters got a picture of the lander underneath the parachutes.

I am interested in all things in the space program, and these landings are on the top of my list of news stories.